ALDERMAN CHARLES PARKS.

The name most frequently connected with the place was that of Alderman Charles Parks, the Tammany representative of the Twentieth District. He was seen there day and night. He was recognized as the owner because he gave orders to the employees as if he had a right to do so.

Habitues of the place, if they wanted any favors or had any complaint to make, went to Alderman Parks. He cashed the bank checks of patrons who were short of ready cash.

Alderman Parks went into the gambling house last night shortly after the newspaper men left, and after being informed that the place was "spotted," gave orders to have it shut up.

The house is closed as tight as a drum to-day. All the gambling paraphernalia was boxed up and stored away, and from the outside the building has the appearance of being deserted.

The house is in Capt. Price's precinct, the station-house of which is in West Thirty-seventh street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues. Crowds frequented the house at all hours of the day and night, and the click of the chips could be heard on the sidewalk, but Capt. Price's men were both deaf and blind.

Faro, roulette, rouge-et-noir and stud horse poker were favorite games, and according to persons who played cards in the place, Alderman Parks sat at the gambling tables and saw to it that the house got the proper "rake off" or percentage money in the "stud" game.

It is said that the gambling-house was formerly located at 344 West Twenty-fourth street, the residence of Alderman Parks, which is in Capt. Donohue's precinct, West Twentieth street station. Capt. Donohue was, however, not in command of the precinct four months ago.

Whether Parks got the tip to move into another place or whether he "made satisfactory" arrangements in the precinct where he is not known.

Among the employees of the gambling-house were Louis Leyman, formerly employed in a gambling-house on Third street, near Broadway, and "Paddy" Ryan, formerly a dealer of faro, at Sixth avenue, between Third and Fourth streets.

Alderman Parks was sued a year or two ago to recover $4,000 on a check of his which was not honored. He refused to pay the check, claiming that it was a gambling debt. According to the story at the time the Alderman "blew in" $4,000 playing poker and gave a check for that amount and then had payment stopped.

Contention and excitement prevailed last night in the Thirty-first street house when word was passed around that the "big" was up.

The employees and habitues of the place stood in groups near Eighth avenue, on Third street, and waited. They expected a raid to follow the visit of the suspected caller, but none was made.

GRANGER IN MOUNT VERNON?

Report of His Presence There Cannot Be Verified.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., June 2.—The report that Gideon Granger, the son-in-law of Police Commissioner McCleave, had arrived in this city yesterday morning and had been in consultation with his lawyer, S. J. Stillwell, could not be verified.

Lawyer Stillwell went to White Plains early this morning to attend to some law business at the County Court-House, and had not returned at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

"The gentleman who went out with Mr. Stillwell yesterday afternoon," said the clerk in the lawyer's office, "was not Granger, but Mr. E. J. Farrell, who is a friend of Mr. Stillwell."

"Granger has never been in this office, to my knowledge," Mr. Stillwell had any business transactions with him, they have been conducted in some other place."

Joseph Weber, the proprietor of the Weber House, where Granger applied for accommodations when he left New York last week, said he had not seen Granger since last Thursday night.

"He treated me and his lawyer very shabbily," said Mr. Weber, "and I don't want to have anything more to do with him."

"He came to me last week and said he wanted accommodations for a week, where he would not be disturbed, and I sent him to my brother's place first, and then gave him a room at my country place at Inverness."

"He stayed there only one night, and then disappeared, although he had engaged his room for a week. I had promised him that I would not open my mouth, but now I don't care. If I knew where he was I would tell you at once."

CLUBBED AND BLACKMAILED.

Jersey City Policemen Suspended Pending an Investigation.

Policeman Thomas Gannon, of the First Precinct, Jersey City, was suspended by Inspector Lange this morning. He was charged with blackmail, intimidation and assault and battery.

Gannon, while passing through Barrow street at 8 o'clock this morning, saw an Italian ragpicker rummaging the contents of an ash barrel. It is charged that he demanded 25 cents. The Italian gave him the money and was released. Gannon at the time had a pistol in his uniform.

Harry Houston, a cripple, saw Gannon kicking the Italian and remonstrated with him. At this the policeman struck Houston. Houston then went to Police Headquarters and made a complaint.

Police Captain Farrier was sent to Gannon's home and ordered him to arrest him. Gannon, who was in bed, was made to get up and was then taken to Headquarters. There he was relieved of his shield. He had been on the force for about three years, and his reputation up to the present has been good.

"FIELD" AT IT AGAIN.

More Poppycock About Vigilant's "Filmsness."

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 2.—The Field, in its yachting article, to-day says: "The contention that Vigilant was not a fair vessel to match against Valkyrie on account of her flimsy construction will be emphasized by the fact that she is being strengthened for her Atlantic passage. We believe that the Committee of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club mediated last Autumn a clause insuring that the defending yacht for the Victoria Cup should be built capable of sailing the Atlantic on her own bottom."

"The clause was not adopted, owing to the difficulty of determining the fitness of built for the purpose, and because it would most likely result in the challenger getting no match after she had crossed the Atlantic. Still, the point well displays the enormous advantage which the defending yacht has over the challenger."

The invasion of American-built boats this season is likely to try the genius of our naval architects severely. So far as Vigilant is concerned, we should say that she will be enormously improved by the reduction of her sail plan."

PRINCE FERDINAND THANKED.

Some Bulgarians Grateful for Relief from the Stamboulofs.

(By Associated Press.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 2.—The principal citizens of Philippopolis and several Deputies have joined in a resolution thanking Prince Ferdinand for delivering the country from the Stamboulof regime, which, latterly, it is claimed, had been oppressive upon the people.

Large crowds attended similar meetings in other southern towns. There was no disorder.

Francis Joseph to Visit Budapest.

(By Associated Press.)

VIENNA, June 2.—Emperor Francis Joseph will go to Budapest to-morrow, and will stay there several days.

TOO ROUGH FOR RACING.

Naval Cadets' Race to Be Held on Severn River Course.

(By Associated Press.)

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 2.—The water in the harbor this morning was too rough for the Pennsylvania Naval Cadets' race.

The contest will be held on the Severn River course this afternoon.

Titled Englishmen in Town.

Lord Henry Scott, Lord Herbert Scott and Sir William Glynne, young Englishmen, accompanied by Kerr, Dalrymple, M. P., resided at the Hotel Waldorf last night. They arrived here about a month ago and have since been travelling in the West. They are very much impressed by the magnitude of the country and the business enterprises.

HILL FOR OPEN DOORS.

Wants the Public Admitted to the Sugar Investigation.

Laws Made Openly—Why Make Inquiries in Secret?

Resolution Looking to Gettysburg Field's Protection Adopted.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—At the opening of the session of the Senate at 10 o'clock to-day Mr. Hill (Dem., N. Y.) again tried to secure consideration for the joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to institute proceedings in condemnation to secure possession of certain portions of the battlefield of Gettysburg.

Mr. Gray (Dem., Del.) said that while he sympathized with the purposes of the resolution (to prevent contemplated vandalism), he was not clear as to the Government's right of eminent domain in this case.

Mr. Manderson (Rep., Neb.) and Mr. Hawley (Rep., Conn.) both appealed to Mr. Gray on the ground of the urgency of action to prevent certain trolley lines from invading the battlefield and destroying the old landmarks, to withdraw from the framing of the sugar schedule to throw open its doors while testimony was being taken.

Mr. Hill then called up his resolution directing the special committee to investigate the charges of bribery, Senatorial speculation and the influence of the sugar trust in the framing of the sugar schedule to throw open its doors while testimony was being taken.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—At the opening of the session of the Senate at 10 o'clock to-day Mr. Hill (Dem., N. Y.) again tried to secure consideration for the joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to institute proceedings in condemnation to secure possession of certain portions of the battlefield of Gettysburg.

Mr. Gray (Dem., Del.) said that while he sympathized with the purposes of the resolution (to prevent contemplated vandalism), he was not clear as to the Government's right of eminent domain in this case.

Mr. Manderson (Rep., Neb.) and Mr. Hawley (Rep., Conn.) both appealed to Mr. Gray on the ground of the urgency of action to prevent certain trolley lines from invading the battlefield and destroying the old landmarks, to withdraw from the framing of the sugar schedule to throw open its doors while testimony was being taken.

Mr. Hill then called up his resolution directing the special committee to investigate the charges of bribery, Senatorial speculation and the influence of the sugar trust in the framing of the sugar schedule to throw open its doors while testimony was being taken.
